SENATE HAS PLENTY TO KEEP IT OCCUPIED.

Trashington, March 1-The Democrats of the house have decided to prosecute their filibuster unand the three remaining days of the session therefore promise to be largely repetitions of the last three-that is, all business will have to be transacted in the face of every obstacle which the minority can interpose. But even by the laborious processes to which the majority will be put, it is believed that ample time remains to get through the conference report on the five remaining appropriation bills.

There is still chance for much beyond that so far as the house is concerned. Twenty-seven bills with senate amendments are on the speaker's table. One or two of these may get through, but the great majorly are doomed to die where they are. The one bill in which the Republican leaders are particularly interested is the Aldrich financial bill, and if it comes over from the senate a way will be found, probably through the operation of a special rule, to secure action on it. The complications arising out of the fact that a hostile committee, that on banking and currency, has juris-diction over the subject, can be over-come by a rule. It is believed that senate yesterday in amended form, also

With the present tieup in the house, the house conferees cannot go back to the house for instructions without a complete agreement, except at the price of great risk and delay. "Dear Mr. Howell' As to federal appointments in the south. Frankly, it seems to me that my appointments speak for themselves, and that my policy is self-explanatory. So far from feeling that they need the slightest apology or justification, my position is that on the strength of what I have done, I have the right to claim the support of all good citizens who wish not only a high standard of federal service. But fair and equitable dealing to the south as well as to the north, and a policy of consistent justice and good will toward all men. FAILURE OF TRUST BUSTERS

LITTLEFIELD BILL WAS KILLED IN THE SENATE.

Washington, March 1 .- The work of this session of this congress, the closing of which marks the expiration of the Fifty-seventh congress, is practically at an end except for the passage of the appropriation bills now pending, and these are in the final stages. A imited number of other measures may be passed during the last hours, but the number will be very small.

A summary of the legislation enacted during these two sessions makes an interesting showing. The Fifty-seventh has been a busy congress, and important results have been obtained. Among the acts of this session is that creating the department of commerce and labor and adding another cabinet officer to the president's official family. That department, with George B. Cortelyou head, is now in process of organiza-tion. The bill creating his department was introduced by Senator Nelson, and was passed by the senate during the late session, passing the house during the present session, when an amend ment proposed by Mr. Nelson was in-corporated. This amendment contained a publicity clause. Another important lece of legislation enacted at this ses-on is the anti-rebate act, commonly known as the Elkins law.

Anti-trust Fiasco.

Army and Navy Legislation. Legislation of importance to the army and navy was enacted. A general staff corps has been provided for the United States army, the duties of which are to prepare plans for the defense of the country and for the mobilization of the armies of the United States in times of war, as well as to render professional aid to the secretary of war and the general officers of the army. This measure was proposed by the secretary of

The militia bill introduced by Repre sentative Dick of Ohio, and which passed the house during the first sespassed the house during the first session, passed the senate during this session and has become a law. This act provides for the general organization of the militla of the United States and makes it available when its services may be required by the government. The naval appropriation bill, which has passed both houses, provided for a material increase in the personnel of the navy to meet the growing demands for officers and men; also for an in-crease in the number of warships. was made to relieve the distress and suffering caused by the ravages of disease among the water buffalo in the islands, upon which the natives are almost wholly dependent in the pursuit of agriculture, and to relieve the dis tress resulting from the shortage of crops during war and other ravages. A currency system has been provided for the Philippine islands. Another act promoted the efficiency of the Philippines' constabulary, and still another provided for extradition of criminals to and from the islands. The house passed a bill to reduce the Philippines tariff and the senate has been urged by the president to complete the act.

Miscellaneous Laws.

Of importance to Hawaii is the act passed at this session for the redemp-tion by the United States of Hawaiian silver money and the appropriation to pay judgments growing out of the sup-pression of bubonic plague. The sundry civil bill soon to become a law makes appropriations for carry-ing forward river and harbor work and federal building construction, while the omnibus building bill now pending authorizes a large number of new buildings throughout the United States.

The anarchist bill, providing protection of the president, has passed both houses and conferees have agreed irrigation for the arid lands of the west; providing a consular and diplomatic service for Cuba.

Five of the general appropriation bills have been signed by the president, and two others, the Indian and the army, have finally passed both houses. With one or two exceptions all the others have been sent to conference. Those approved are the pension, the legislative, executive and judicial and the diplomatic and consular and two urgent diplomatic and consular and two urgent deficiency bills. Those in conference are the Distric of Columbia, the agri-culture, the maitary academy, post-office, sundry civil, naval and fortifica-
